

Any time during editing, you can type in the timecode values (using the numeric keypad on the right side of the keyboard) to navigate to a to a specific frame wihtin a clip or sequence.

You can cue forward and backward from the current position of the clip by a specified number of minutes, seconds and frames using positive or negative frame offset values.

- To cue to a frame based on a known timecode, type the timecode by using the numeric keypad.
- To cue forward from the current position, type <+> and the offset amount by using the numeric keypad.
- To cue backward from the current position, type <-> and the offset amount by using the numeric keypad.